Milwaukee Daily Sentinel, Friday, March 01, 1878; pg 2, col C ;Issue 52: "Manitowoc, Feb.
28-The death of Col. T.G. Olmstead, of this city, is deserving to more than the brief telegraphic announcement in Wednesday's Daily Sentinel. Deceased was born at Howard, N.Y., February 1833, received an academic education and like many of his acquaintances, sought his fortune at the West in early life. He settled here about the year 1854, and quietly took his position in society as a young man of excellent abilities and attainments, liked by all. In politics he was a Democrat, and received at the hands of his party many political honors appreciative of their estimate of his worth and ability. He was elected and served on or more terms as Clerk of the Circuit Court of Manitowoc County, and one terms as County Judge. In 1861 he married Miss Liza Cole of Kenosha, who survived but four years, and died a loved and loving wife. Immediately after President Lincoln's call to 600,000 men, deceased was commissioned captain, and empowered to raise a company here. this was done principally through his efforts, and mustered in as Co. D. 27th Reg't Wis. Vols. Capt. Olmstead was early promoted to Major, and later to Lieut-Colonel of the 27th Reg't. In 187? deceased purchased a controlling interest in the "Manitowoc Pilot", and continued editor and proprietor thereof to his death.

Ten Eyck, (as his friends call him) was favorite with all, generous and noble-hearted to a fault, always discharging his official duties honestly and faithfully, no stain of dishonor or corruption ever attaching to him. He leaves behind an untarnished record as a faithful public servant. His charities were never paraded before the public, yet no need applicant left him unsatisfied, if within his power to help; and many in the silent prayer that will be offered for the benefit of the dea??. Funeral services of the deceased were held at St. James Church on Wednesday afternoon with a very large attendance."
